Important Legal Notice

Please read this notice carefully before using SafeLaw.

SafeLaw is not a law firm

SafeLaw is operated by SELLAI LLC (TIN (STIR): 312530703, Nukus, Republic of Karakalpakstan, Republic of Uzbekistan). SafeLaw is a digital information platform that uses artificial intelligence to help understand general legal concepts, generate standard document templates and analyse documents for informational purposes.

SafeLaw is not an attorney's office, a law firm, a notary office or a provider of legal services. SafeLaw does not engage in the practice of law. SafeLaw does not employ attorneys to advise users.

No attorney–client relationship

Using SafeLaw does not create an attorney–client relationship between you and SELLAI LLC or any of its employees and contractors. The information provided by SafeLaw is not protected by attorney–client privilege. We are not your attorneys. If you need professional legal assistance, consult a licensed attorney.

Information is not a substitute for legal advice

SafeLaw's information and content are not a substitute for advice from a qualified attorney.

You acknowledge and agree that:

- Legislation is regularly updated. SafeLaw's information may be incomplete, outdated or incorrect.
- Legal matters depend on specific facts. A single overlooked fact can change the correct answer.
- General information cannot account for the unique circumstances of your case.
- Following SafeLaw's information without professional review may lead to serious consequences.

You must always consult a qualified attorney before:

- Making any legal decision
- Signing any document or contract
- Filing any claim, complaint or application
- Responding to any claim or notice

- Taking actions that may have legal consequences
- Making decisions about business, family, finances, property, employment or taxes

Important Notice About AI-Generated Content

SafeLaw uses large language models and other artificial intelligence systems.

AI can make mistakes. AI outputs may contain:

- Factual errors and inaccuracies
- Hallucinations — confidently stated information that is entirely fabricated
- Fabricated court precedents — references to cases that do not exist
- Fabricated references to legislation — citations of laws and articles that do not exist or are misquoted
- Outdated information — references to provisions that have already changed or been repealed
- Misinterpreted facts
- Omissions — the absence of important information or exceptions

AI is not reproducible. AI may give different answers to the same question. You cannot rely on the consistency of answers.

AI does not verify information. AI cannot reliably verify whether information is current, compliant with the law in force or applicable to your circumstances.

AI does not replace an attorney. AI cannot replace the professional judgment, ethical obligations and expertise of a qualified attorney. AI does not understand the nuances of your situation or the consequences of legal decisions.

Your Responsibility

You bear sole responsibility for verifying any AI-generated content before relying on it, signing it, filing it or acting on it.

Before using it, you must:

1. Verify factual statements against official sources (official publications of legal acts and case law)
2. Check all references to laws against the current texts of legal acts
3. Have a qualified attorney review the content
4. Consider whether the AI may have omitted important information

SafeLaw templates are general

SafeLaw's document templates are based on general patterns and are not tailored to your specific situation. They may not meet the requirements of your case and must not be signed or filed without an attorney's review.

No Warranties

SafeLaw makes no warranties as to the accuracy, completeness, currency or legal validity of AI-generated content. The Service is provided "as is". Full details are in the Terms of Use (safelaw.ai/terms).

Your Consent

By using SafeLaw, you confirm that you understand and accept all of the above limitations. If you do not agree, do not use SafeLaw.
